This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

PREFACE.

THE preparation of the "M^{c}Gillycuddy Papers" for the press was undertaken by the Editor, at the request of the late M^{c}Gillycuddy, who unhappily did not live to see the completion of the work, which was originally commenced with a view to their private rather than public circulation. The Manuscripts themselves were of no very ancient date, but were in a sad state of decay and confusion, from the effects of previous neglect. When the work of transcription was completed, a selection from the entire collection seemed worthy of being printed, not merely as a volume of Family Papers—such as are rarely to be found in Ireland, except among the O'Briens, Butlers, or Fitzgeralds—but also as affording a valuable and entirely trustworthy illustration of the mode in which the estates of an Irish Chieftain were in part preserved to his descendants, notwithstanding their confiscation under the reign of Elizabeth, and in despite of the Act of Settlement and other legal dangers and difficulties to which Irish properties were exposed during subsequent reigns.

The M^{c}Gillycuddy of Elizabeth's time was an Irish Chieftain, owing allegiance to his immediate lord, the O'Sullivane More, and obeying the Brehon law under which he held his territory. He was bound to follow his Superior Chief into the field with a certain contingent of men, and, like most of the other chieftains of Kerry, was drawn into what is sometimes called the Desmond "rebellion," but which, more properly speaking was a war undertaken by a powerful Irish Chieftain, less perhaps in support of the Roman Catholic religion than in defence of his great estates and the ancient privileges and rights of the Irish clans or septs.

In the reign of James I., the M°Gillycuddy gave no trouble to the English Government. To Charles I., Charles II., and James II., the M°Gillycuddy of the period was undoubtedly loyal, but did not push his devotion to the last-named monarch to such an extreme as to prevent his accepting the terms extended under the treaty of Limerick, in 1691, to the Irish Roman Catholics of the County of Kerry. The M°Gillycuddies, accordingly, appear to have been loyal subjects of the English Crown for more than two centuries and a half, during a hundred years of which period the heads of the family were Roman Catholics. At a time, like the present, when everything relating to the land settlement of Ireland is of interest to the statesman, it may not be wholly unprofitable to examine, by the light of original documents, the process by which a remnant of the once princely inheritance of a loyal Irish Roman Catholic family was saved from legal destruction.

The thanks of the Editor are offered to John P. Prendergast, Esq., author of the "Cromwellian Settlement of Ireland," for the contributions from the Carte Collections, in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, which appear in the Introductory Memoir. The Editor wishes also to thank James Morrin, Esq., of the Rolls Office, Dublin, and John Ribton Garstin, Esq., M.R.I.A., for valuable assistance. For the pedigree of the M°Gillycuddy family deduced from the earlier times to the end of the sixteenth century, the Editor is indebted to William M. Hennessy, Esq., M.R.I.A., Editor of the "Chronicon Scotorum." To the Rev. C. P. Meehan, M.R.I.A., thanks are offered for his assistance in deciphering some nearly illegible signatures of members of the Council of the Confederate Catholics.

INTRODUCTORY MEMOIR.

THE estates of the M°Gillycuddy sept, in Kerry, were, no doubt, in ancient times of vast extent, and the forfeited or confiscated lands of Donald or Donogh M°Dermott O'Sullivan, otherwise called M°Gillycuddy, who was killed whilst fighting under the Earl of Desmond against Elizabeth, comprised no inconsiderable tract of country. This Donogh, or Donald, surnamed "Geraldagh," or the Geraldine, was the son of Domhnal (Anglice Daniel), the thirty-fifth in descent, according to ancient Irish genealogies, from Oilill Olum, King of Munster, who died A.D. 234. The territory of this Donald Geraldagh M°Gillycuddy, of Bodevismyne, killed in the Desmond wars, was granted by letters patent of Queen Elizabeth, dated 9th of June, 1595, to Edmond Barret, of Ferys, who by deed of bargain and sale, dated the day after the date of his own patent, conveyed them to "Edward Hussey, of Ballyngown." This Edward Hussey in a short time, namely, on the 19th of April, 1598 [Anno 40° Eliz.], conveyed those lands to "Donogh M°Dermuddy, alias M°Gillycuddy, of Bodenesmeen." These lands, some of which have continued to the present day in the possession of the M°Gillycuddy family, are thus described in the deed last mentioned, viz.:—"The manors, town, and lands of Carrowlongford, namely, Bodenesmen als ffarenegatt, Tynnescartie, Both ye Ards, Caharowbeg, Banecloen, Ardlaghes, Shanneries, Carrowloghert-Kylsullagh, viz.:—Listiconogher, Kapparush, Gowlane, Bracahiragh, Cahirdonilyeragh, Moneflugh, Dirrilettircuosh, with all and singular," &c., &c. It is curious that several of these denominations are named in a list of lands held in tanistry by "Dermott, Bough, Daniel and Conor O'Sullivane, sons of Donell O'Sullivan-more, deceased," and surrendered by them to James I., who on the 27 Sept., 1603, accepted them by letters patent, in order to regrant them to those parties. [Pat. Rot., James I., 1°, Part 1, dorso lxxviii. 26]. In 1604, another grant, dated March 22, was made by his Majestie, to Lord Bourke, of "the castle and town of Bodevismine," and other lands, "parcel of the estate of Donogh M°Dermot O'Swilevan, otherwise M°Gillycuddie of the same, dead in rebellion." [Pat. Rot., 2°, James I., part 2, xiv. 27]. Sir Charles Wilmot, in 1614, had also a patent, dated 10 December, for the lands of Donald the Geraldine [Infra, pp. 3 and 4], which he, on the following day, conveyed by deed of feofment, bargain and sale, unto Maurice or "Morish Crosbie, of Clonemony." The territory forfeited by Donald M°Gillycuddy, and granted so often by letters patent to various parties, comprised twenty or more denominations of land lying in the parishes of Knockane, Killorglin, and Kilcroghane, and in the baronies of Dunkeron and Iveragh. The individuals, to whom these grants were made, seem, however, to have profitted little by them, for they appear to have been occupied continuously by members of the M°Gillycuddy family, and to have paid no quit-rent to the Crown in those times.

Conchobhar or Conor, the lineal ancestor of the present M°Gillycuddy, and said to have been the son of Donald or Donough M°Gillycuddy, the Geraldine, is variously styled "Cnogher M°Gillycuddy, of Castlecurrig," or "Cornelius O'Sullivane, alias M°Gillycuddy, of Castlecurrig." There is a document in the State Paper Office, dated 12 Feb^{y}., 1596, enclosing "a note of such as are Lords of Cuntries, being Finnin Mac Cartis kinsmen, and followers of the Earls of Clancarte w'thin Desmond," &c. In this paper the name "M^{c} Gillo Cuddie," stands sixth on the list, being preceded by the names of Finnin's two cousins, and by those of the "O'Sullévan Moar," the "O'Sullevan Bear," and the "O'Donnaogh-Glan." Conor M°Gillycuddie held the lands which were granted, as before noticed, to Barret, Bourke, and Wilmot, "as his owne and ancient inheritance." His rights of possession were not interfered with by Wilmot's assignee, Morish or Maurice Crosbie, of Clonmony, who conveyed all his interest in those lands by a formal deed, dated 27 Sept., 1618, to "Connor M°Gillycuddie, of ffarrynnygat, in consideration of £200, paid him by said Connor." This Maurice Crosbie or Cosby, was a near relative (most probably a brother) of Patrick Crosbie, who for his services to Queen Elizabeth, in Leinster and Munster, received from Her Majesty various grants, including some of the lands in Kerry, which had formerly been passed in patent to Edmund Barret. These Crosbies were originally "M°Crossans," and were kinsmen of the O'Mores of Leix, of whose "removal into Kerry," during Elizabeth's reign, there are notices in the State Paper Office. The name M°Crossan was anglicised into Crosbie, in pursuance of a custom commonly adopted by the adherents of the English power in those days. Patrick had a younger brother, named John, who became bishop of Ardfert and Aghadoe in 1600. He was recommended for this see to Queen Elizabeth, by James, Earl of Desmond, the son of Her Majesty's great foe. The Queen's letter, appointing Crosbie to the bishoprick, is dated "manor of Oatland, Oct. 2, 1600." [Morrin's Patent Rolls, vol. I., p. 560]. In this letter John Crosbie is described as "a graduate in schools of English race (!), and skilled in the English tongue." It is also stated that he had "other means of living to enable him to bear the expenses of promotion to a see wasted by rebellion." Bishop Crosbie settled at Ardfert Abbey, where his descendants possess, at the present day, a considerable estate. Conor M°Gillycuddy had for his first wife Joan Crosbie, daughter of the bishop, and by her had five children. [Infra, p. 36.] The date of this his first marriage was probably the year 1615 or 1618. Conor M°Gillycuddy acquired, by purchase or intermarriage, several denominations of land in Kerry. In 1619, on November the 6th, "Owen O'Sullivane, of Bally n° gillaneslan," made over to him and his heirs for ever, the lands of Carrownehover, Ardshilane, Carrowmire Ightragh ne Kinsallagh, Carrowmire Igtragh Glanloghe, and Cahir donnile ierragh. On the 19th of August, 1623, Maurice Crosbie conveyed to him the lands of Clonloher, Coade, Ballyledir, Bearhane, Dromacliffe, and O'Comgaons (formerly granted to Sir John Kinge and Sir John James by the Crown), at the nominal rent of 23 shillings a year. Conor had for his second wife, a daughter of Daniel Oge Carty, of Dunguile. His death took place by shipwreck in October, 1630, according to the funeral entry in Ulster's Office, or on the 3rd of November, 1630, as the inquisition post mortem states.

Donough, the eldest son of Conor M°Gillycuddy by Joan Crosbie, was born at Ardfert, as appears from the Matriculation books of Trinity College. According to the same authority, the year of his birth was 1623, which date agrees with other papers, but not with the inquisition post mortem, given infra, p. 25, which states him to have been under eleven years of age at his father's death in 1630. His uncle, David Crosbie, of Ardfert, was his guardian, and watched over his ward's worldly interests, by taking legal proceedings for his protection on various occasions. Young M°Gillycuddy entered Trinity College, Dublin, on the 17th of November, 1640, but seems not to have taken out any degree. In the month of March, 1641 (p. 52), he married Marie, the youngest daughter of Daniel, the O'Sullivan More, by Juan Fitzmaurice. Donough's "tender age," which is brought forward in some of his petitions as proof that he took no part in the "plunder and outrages done against the Protestants," did not, it seems, prevent him from contracting an early marriage, nor from taking proceedings, for the recovery of his wife's fortune, before the Council of the Confederate Catholics. His uncle, David Crosbie, the Protestant bishop's son, appears as one of the Commissioners for the army for the County of Kerry, and in conjunction with Richard Connell, the Catholic Bishop of Ardfert and Aghadoe, signs a decree in 1643, in favour of his nephew, the M°Gillycuddy.

Donough M°Gillycuddy was certified not only to have had no part in the plunder of the Protestants, but even to have relieved them when in great distress. He was not in arms before the year 1648, when he raised a foot company at his own cost, and subsequently brought together five or six companies of his kinsmen and friends to aid the Royal cause, for which and other services he received from the Duke of Ormond a commission as Lieutenant-Colonel. He suffered, however, severely for his loyalty, receiving many wounds, and losing his lands and his castle, which he burned rather than permit it to fall into the hands of the Parliamentarian General. He was afterwards taken prisoner, and when released under the articles of peace which Clancarty was compelled to accept, refused to remain in Ireland under the conditions imposed by the "usurping power," and went into voluntary exile. In foreign parts he "followed his Majestie's fortune, person, and command, until his happy Restoration." In 1661, he obtained an order from Charles II. to be restored to his estates, and in the same year had licence to bring "his wife and family, goods and necessaries," from Flanders to Ireland. But impediments of various kinds interfered with his enjoyment of his ancestral property. Some of his lands, which in 1653 were usurped by the Parliamentarians, came into the possession, in 1659, of James Napper, who on the 1st of May in that year,

"by order of the Council," obtained "a lott" in Kerry, which included a part of the M°Gillycuddie estate. Among the lands then granted were the denominations of "Tomys, Dunloe, Culemagort, Ardkinturke, Cliddagh, Cullinagh, Kippaghanavane, two Carrunihones, Farrinagatt, Ards, Carrubeg, Teneskartie, the two Tulliges, Ardlaghas, Banecluone, Ardralk, and Gortinscarry," all which lands Napper set to his kinsman, Robert Blennerhasset, of Killorglin, for £64, for one year.

In 1662, M°Gillycuddie got possession, by order of the Lords Justices, of over fifty "ploughlands" or denominations, and in 1663, obtained "Ards, Farranegat, Teneskarty, and Carrubeg," where the ruins of the castle of his forefathers remain. Among the Carte Papers [vol. 44, p. 326] preserved in the Bodleian Library at Oxford, is a Return made about the year 1664, entitled "An Abstract of the number of acres unto which several persons have been restored, or designed to be restored, either by Act of Parliament, by order from his Ma^{ty}, by order from the Lords Justices, the House of Lords, or Coarte of Claymes." In this Return "L^{t} Coll. M°Gillycuddye" is set down for "66,500$^{A.}$" in "Kerrye." In another Return of "Persons restored by the King's Letters, being not Proviso Men or Mero motu men," "L^{t} Coll. M°Gillycuddy" is set down for 6,500 acres. [Carte Papers, vol. 44, p. 366.] But the M°Gillycuddy was by no means put into undisturbed possession of this property, for he was for years afterwards harassed by the adventurers, soldiers, and others, who, under the Act of Settlement set up claims to various portions of his estates. He had to plead over again for his lands, before the Commissioners of the Act of Settlement in 1667, and seems never to have been free from suits for Quit-rents and Chief-rents due to the Crown on different pretences.

One of his chief tormentors was Sir William Petty, who in 1664 [Infra p. 119] had contrived to take away part of M°Gillycuddy's land on some pretext of law.* Colonel Donogh, however, had powerful friends, whose interference he frequently solicited with success. In 1668 he sent the following petition, dated from "Karhubeg in Kerry, 17° Nov: 1668," to the Duke of Ormond:—

"May it please your Grace,

"As by your Graces mediation to his Ma^tie^ I am in possession of my "poore Estate, pursuant to his Ma^tie's^ gratious letters dated at Whitehall the Munster, and Twelve Shillings in Leinster, paying a Quit-rent, upon every acre, of One Farthing for every Shilling, unprofitable mountains and scrubby wood thrown in.

The allotment of land in satisfaction for their adventures was not to be made to the subscribers until the Parliament should declare the Irish to be subdued and the war to be appeased and ended, an event which did not take place until September, 1652; and then the Parliament resolved to pay their Army their arrears of pay, at the same rates as the Adventurers, in Land. Upon this occasion the grand aim of the different regiments, who might possibly fall there, was to avoid Kerry, which happened to be the Lot of three Regiments commanded by Colonel Henry Pretty, Lord Broghill, and another. "It was the interest of all those of the Army," says Doctor Petty, "who were sure not to fall there to urge to have every acre of the coarsest, and such whereof forty "were not worth one of the arable of the same country to bee imposed for payable, to the end that "the quota pars of their own satisfactions fallen by lot in better counties might be the greater; "for if the Baronies of Iveragh, Dunkeran, and part of Glanneroughty, had been taken into the credit, "the quota of Twelve Shillings and Three Pence might probably have been Sixteen Shillings; and in "case the disposeable land of the rest of Kerrey had been excluded, the quota, instead of Twelve "Shillings, had been but Ten."—[History of the Down Survey, by Doctor W. Petty, A.D. 1655–6. Edited by Major Thos. A. Larcom, Royal Engineers. 4to, Dublin, 1851, p. 85.]

In other words, were the greater part of the lands in Kerry to be considered "Unprofitable," and therefore not available towards satisfying the Army, or to be considered "Profitable"? The course finally taken by Doctor Petty's Surveyors was to equalize townlands, and to value the coarser but not entirely unprofitable lands, as requiring a certain number to make up the value of one profitable acre, sometimes counting fifteen acres for one. In such case they placed in one column the entire number of acres, good and coarse together, as "profitable," within the terms of the Act of Parliament; and in another column, spoken of in Colonel M^c^Gillicuddy's Letters as "the extreme or reduced column," were set down the number of acres to be considered "Profitable," and chargeable with Quit-rent, according to the scale of comparison or computation, by which fifteen or other number of acres were to be counted for one.

These quarrels between the different regiments of the Army were hardly over before the King's Restoration brought about a new settlement. The King's first intention was, so far to confirm the best of the Adventurers and Souldiers, as to provide for their satisfaction by giving them an amount of Land adequate to pay them at the original rates; but, as he had promised to restore the best and most loyal of the Irish who had served, like Colonel M^c^Gillycuddy, under his Ensigns or

"18th of April, 1661. I have verie greate faith to assure myself yo^r Grace "will not see me turned out of the same to the everlasting ruin of my poore "familie, now that it pleased God to oapen that way of the reduced collum "which will not be allowed me, as the Commissioners tell my son in Dublin, "without his Ma^tie's orders.

Standard abroad, the royal intention, in many cases, could only be carried out by way of reprize, that is, by giving the displaced Adventurer or Souldier, other Lands elsewhere in exchange. Colonel M^cGillycuddy thus got the King's Letter of 18th April, 1661, to be restored, and under it took possession of his Estate, no one as yet interfering with him. Similar Letters were obtained by a great number of loyal Irish, both of Milesian and English descent, which soon raised a clamour among the Adventurers and Soldiers hitherto in possession, and now dispossessed, or threatened with being dispossessed; and they had interest enough to get the Court first erected for putting in Execution the King's Declaration of 30th November, 1660, superseded by another, under an Act commonly called "An Act for the Settlement of Ireland," repealing many of the beneficial clauses of the Declaration in favour of Irish Roman Catholics. This Act was passed in 1662. But it was repealed, as still too favourable to the Irish, by another Act in 1665, called "The Act of Explanation."

Under the Act of 1662, the Commissioners of the Court had come to a conclusion that the Estates restored to the Irish on the ground of their innocence, were not liable to the Quit-rents charged by the Adventurers Act on Lands conquered from the Irish, and embodied in the Act of 1662.

It was natural to impose it on the new conquests; but seemed unreasonable and cruel to make those liable to it who after suffering banishment and poverty for twelve or fifteen years, were restored as being innocent of any crime.

By the Act of Explanation this decision was reversed, and the Irish restored were made liable, but the Protestants or English restored in like manner to their old Estates, were exempted.—[17 & 18 Car. 2d, chap. 2, sec. 42.]

But the Lord Lieutenant was empowered, in consideration that the Quit-rent on coarse land might render it worthless by equalling or exceeding its real value, to moderate during the next three years the Quit-rent, on account of the discouragement that might thereby ensue to plantation and improvement.—[Ibid., sec. 43.]

During the whole sitting of the Commissioners of Claims, the various English and Protestants who were to be reprized for lands that had been taken from them, and restored to the former proprietors, English or Irish, shunned and rejected Kerry, or Col. M^cGillicuddy would have quickly lost his property. Had the Quit-rent been reduced within the time limited by the Act of Explanation, many would have been no doubt contented to take it for a reprize. But the limit of three years being elapsed, and the Court of Claims closed, the saving of his Estate to M^cGillycuddy now lay in the King's power.

In 1671, M°Gillycuddy obtained a pension from the King, as appears by the following abstract of the King's Letter, dated September 13, 1671, and "Addressed to John, Lord Berkely, Lord Lieutenant of Ireland, or other, the Chief Governour, in his absence":—

no doubt a great boon to those unfortunate noblemen, but that boon was sadly diminished in value by irregularity and delay in payment. For according to an account of the arrears of the Civil List, from the 25th December, 1675, to Michaelmas, 1681, the pensions of M°Gillycuddy, and almost all the rest, were two years in arrear.—[Carte Papers, vol. 53, p. 225.]

It was, perhaps, as much owing to Sir W. Petty's hostile intervention, as to the operation of the "Explanatory Act," that the lands passed in patent to M°Gillycuddy in 1678, were limited to the two thousand acres of Carhunihones, Ardlaghis, Banecluone, and Shanderries. The manner in which Sir W. Petty harassed M°Gillycuddy is sufficiently shown in the following papers, at pages 83, 86, 101, 106, 111, 119, 139, 143, 145, 146, 147, 148. The M°Gillycuddy, it seems, opposed some plans of Sir William, and thereby saved His Majestie the sum of ten thousand pounds. He, however, was put to enormous cost and annoyance by the continual lawsuits in which Sir W. Petty involved him. A good idea of Sir William's plan of proceedings may be gathered from his treatment of Sir George Carteret, Baronet, who in 1662, advanced Petty twelve hundred Pounds to purchase lands for their joint benefit. Sir George, in 1676 and 1677, was obliged to take proceedings against Petty for an account of his money, and applied to some gentlemen in Kerry to afford him information and assistance. His letter to M°Gillycuddy is given infra, p. 121; another letter of Carteret's is here transcribed, along with a copy of Sir William Petty's account with Carteret. These documents will illustrate the method in which Petty searched for defective titles, in order to gain the estates of the old proprietors for himself and his nominees.

The letter of Sir George Carteret is thus addressed :—

By aid of powerful friends* and a judicious expenditure of money, M^c^Gillycuddy was enabled to resist with success the designs of Sir W. Petty on his property. He was exposed to other troubles, however, in the reign of JAMES II. Donough M^c^Gillycuddy was High Sheriff of the County of Kerry, in 1687, and his son Cornelius was, in 1688, appointed by Tyrconnell to a Captain's Commission in Lord Slane's regiment. In 1691 Colonel Dennis M^c^Gillycuddy was appointed, under sign-manual of James II., to be commander-in-chief of all his forces in the town and county of Cavan. This Dennis was either a son or nephew of the M^c^Gillycuddy, who seems to have been in that year, 1691, in Kerry, where he had some part in procuring cattle for the use of the army of King JAMES. Frank, a son of Donough M^c^Gillycuddy, was in the Garrison of Limerick in 1691. On the other hand, L^t^-Colonel Dennis M^c^Gillycuddy (a nephew of Donough) served under WILLIAM, and was instructed in

* The M^c^Gillycuddy was greatly assisted by men of high position in the English Court. He was also on terms of intimacy with Browne, the ancestor of the Earls of Kenmare. The Marchioness of Antrim, whose cousin was M^c^Gillycuddy's daughter-in-law, Lord and Lady Shelburne, and other influential persons in Ireland in those days interested themselves effectively on his behalf.

1689 by Schonberg to command the Irish forces in the Isle of Wight. Another Denis M°Gillycuddy appears to have been serving as a Major in WILLIAM's army in July, 1691. The names Dennis and Donough are sometimes applied in these papers to the same person, and it has been supposed by some that Donough M°Gillycuddy, who served CHARLES I. so faithfully, was the Colonel Dennis M°Gillycuddy promoted by WILLIAM in 1689. This is improbable, for various reasons. The second son of Colonel Donough was, however, an officer under the Prince of Orange, as is proved by a parchment certificate still existing, but of which a portion is illegible. Its contents are as follows :—

"I doe Certify, unto all whom it may concern, that Daniel M°Gillycuddy, "second son to Coll' Donogh M°Gillycuddy of Karhubeg in the County of "Kerry and Kingdome of Ireland, was Capt[n] in Coll Monk's Regiment in "Holland under the Prince of Orange, Stats Houlder of Holland, which "Regim[t] (along with other Regiments) was established by the Earl of Ossery, "Lieut[t] G'ral of those Regim[ts], by orders from King Charles the 2d. [Torn "and illegible.] . . . . called at any time at [Torn] . . . . . "The said Cap[t]. Dan[iell MacGillycud]dy Died in the year of our Lord [Torn . . . . . actually . . . ."

Donough M°Gillycuddy was, however, "comprehended within the articles of Limerick," and his lands, on application to the Commissioners of forfeitures, were struck out of their books. On the 7[th] of November, 1694, "Col[l]. Donagh M°Gillycuddy" took the oath of allegiance to WILLIAM and MARY.

Cornelius, the eldest son of Donough M°Gillycuddy by Marie O'Sullivan, succeeded to the family estates on the death of his father in 1695 or 1696. He served as a Captain in King JAMES' army as before stated, and was Member of Parliament for Ardfert in 1689. He was, however, at Banecluone (now Whitefield and the family residence) on the 3rd of October, 1691, and was included within the articles of Limerick. He took the oaths to their Majesties in 1694. Cornelius, during his father's lifetime, was active in the recovery of the family property, but fell after his father's death into great pecuniary difficulties. He mortgaged all his estates, in 1698, to David Crosby of Ardfert; and in 1706 "levied a fine and suffered recovery" in order to bar the entail. He was for some time before his death of infirm health, and his medical adviser, when sending him a "cooling and lenitive electuary," adds to his letter the following postcript :—

"Here is noe manner of news; we expect too morrows post will bring a sure "acc^{t} of peace or noe peace; I hope you have heard a Long Mass this day "being the last day for any of yo^{r} Clergy y^{t} has not taken y^{e} Oaths, which I "believe you have an acct^{t} of Long agoe. Its of dangerous consequence to "heare Mass from those y^{t} have not taken the Oaths. I am yo^{rs} as before."

From the foregoing, as well as from other documents, it appears that Cornelius was a Roman Catholic as all his ancestors were. The following licence, headed "Doctor Gibbon's libertie to eat flesh," is curious, but licences for exemption from fasting were also obtained frequently by Protestants, during the seventeenth century, and many such licences are on record in the Consistorial Office in Dublin.

"Ego, infrascriptus Medicus Doctor, omnibus quorum interest, aut interesse "poterit, me examinasse temperaturam nobilis et Illustrissimi Domini Cornelius "M^{c}Gillycuddy, eamque esse debilem, valetudinarian, et superannuam, "quapropter sentio eundem Dominum non teneri Jeiunare non solum "hocce præsenti quadrigesima, sed etiam in posterum durante vita nullatenus "tenetur Jeiunare, propter evectam ætatem. In cuius rei fidem et testi- "monium subscripsi die ultima february 1709."

"H. Gibbon."

Cornelius died in November, 1712, leaving no issue, and having endeavoured by a will dated 20 October, 1712, to annul the deeds made to Crosbie in 1706, and to secure the ancestral estates to his nephew and heir-at-law.

Denis, who now in 1712 became "The M^{c}Gillycuddy," was the eldest son of Captain Daniel M^{c}Gillycuddy, who was the second son of Colonel Donough M^{c}Gillycuddy and Marie O'Sullivane. This Daniel served in Colonel Monk's Regiment in Holland under the Prince of Orange and died in or before the year 1705, having married Lucretia, the second daughter and eventually co-heir of Mynheer Derrick Von Dachelaer, by his wife, Joanna Volters. Margaret, the other sister of Lucretia, was wife to Major, afterwards Colonel, Denis M^{c}Gillycuddy, a first cousin to Captain Daniel. Mynheer Derrick Von Dachelaer was Burgomaster of Wageningen in Guelderland, where he possessed

"the great Meadow near the Rhine." Eventually all his property (as his son died without issue) descended to his two daughters, Lucretia and Margaret, the wives of the cousins M°Gillycuddy. By Lucretia, Captain Daniel M°Gillycuddy had issue two sons, Denis the elder, and Cornelius, who settled in Lisbon, under the name of Rodrigo Von Dachelaer, and who by deed, dated 3rd April, 1723, conveyed all his share of the Guelderland property to his brother Denis. In this deed "love and affection" are stated to be the only motives for so liberal a gift. Denis M°Gillycuddy, in 1713, endeavoured, and with some success, to recover from the Crosbies the property entailed on him by his grandfather's will, and he obtained in 1716 from David Crosbie, leases of several denominations of lands at small rents for the term of 990 years. In 1718 Dennis openly declared his conformity to the established religion, as appears by a certificate which is thus endorsed:—"Denis M°Gillycuddy's certificate for taking ye oaths, ano D'ni 1718. Filed in ye Rolls office, 22 July, 1719." The certificate itself is as follows:—

"Com. KERRY. Ad General' Session' pac' tent' apud Tralee in Com' pd 22° die April' ano D'ni, 1718.

"I do hereby certify that Denis M°Gillycuddy, of Carrubeg, in the said "County, gent', came into open C'rte, and produced a certificate of his receiving "the Sacrament of the Lord's Supper according to the Church of Ireland, and "proved the same as the statute requires, and then and there swore the oath "of Allegiance and Abjuracon, and subscribed the same and the Declaracon, "all at the sd sessn. Given under my hand. Dat' ut supra. Signed p' ordin' "Cur' Cha: Carthy—Dr' Cl' Pac'."

Accompanying the foregoing certificate is a letter dated "Rolls Office, Dublin, the 23rd July, 1719," from Samuel Powell, "to Mr. John Blenerhasset, at Tralee." Mr. Powell thus writes:—"Sr/I recevd yours of the 16th Instt "with m°Gillicuddy's certific', of which the foregoing is a true Copy of the "Ori'all with us filed. The fees, which are to be paid by you, I have answd "to the Officer till your coming to Towne, which are five shill' and three "pence half penny, and all possible care for the Dispatch thereof has been "taken for you."

February the 26th) Anne, the daughter of Mr., or Captain, John Blennerhasset, of Killorglin, to whom Powell wrote. In 1724, he went to Guelderland, to look after the property his brother Cornelius gave him in 1723. From thence he wrote to his wife, "Mrs. Ann M°Gillycuddy, at Carhuebeg," the following letter :—

"Wageningen, 29th July, 1724, Dutch stile.

"My D^r^ Life,

"I arriv'd, God be prais'd, at Rotterdam, after a voyage of 14 Days, "all which time I was very sick, and did not eat a pound of any thing, but now "thanck God am Pritty well. Most of my sickness proceeded from trouble in "mind. My Bro^r^ writt to me in Corke that he would begin his voyage for "Lisbon in 14 Days time. Pray Lett me know where he is, and How y^e^ and "the Children doe. Tell M^rs^ Lavery that her Husband is very well, and that "I am very Carefull of him, and that I expect shee will be very carefull of the "children. I find my Busseniss so very Confus'd here that I am afraid I "shan't be able to come over to y^e^, my D^r^, as soon as I Expect'd, but assure "y^r^selfe I will make al the Hast I can to y^r^ arms, who am y^r^ affect' and "Loveing Husband,

"Whilst
"Den : m^c^Gillycuddy.

"Pray lett me know whether Patrick Slavin sett the Teythes of farrennagatt "to any Body for the use of Hugh Lavery as I did expect he would, and am "sure he did. Order Will' Geyheen to gett in the Debts due to Hugh Lavery."

Denis M°Gillycuddy, on his return from Guelderland, applied himself to obtain from the Crosbies, and from the Herberts, to whom part of Crosby's interest in the M°Gillycuddy estates had been assigned, some settlement of the suits which arose out of the deeds signed by his uncle Cornelius. In this he was aided by the good feeling which prevailed between the Crosbies and his family. In 1727, he wrote to Sir Maurice Crosbie, reminding him that David Crosbie, his father, as certain deeds executed by him set forth, was "nearly related to and concerned for the being and preservation of the family" of M°Gillycuddy, and that "more especially since the conversion of [Dennis] to the Protestant religion." It would appear that owing to these considerations, the Crosbies gave Dennis very favourable terms, of which he availed himself to recover part of his patrimony.

Denis M°Gillycuddy executed his last will and testament on the 27th of December, 1730, and soon afterwards died. His will was proved by Sir Maurice Crosbie and other executors on the 27th of February, 1731. He left his Guelderland property to his younger children. Among the items of his funeral expenses were the following, viz. :—

"1ll 15s 0d expended for an Anchor of Brandy.
"4ll laid out in wine for Defuncts Funerall.
"15ll due to Mort Sullivane of Killarney, merchant, for ye Defunct's "Funerall Expenses.
"3ll 5s 0d p'd Keyne Mahony for Brandy, spent at ye Defunct's "Funerall.
"9ll 4s 6d p'd John Cahane of Tralee, for Holland, &c., for s'd "ffunerall."

Anne, the relict of Denis M°Gillycuddy, was married in 1731, to Thomas Herbert, esq., with whom Cornelius, the second son of Denis, had a lawsuit of long continuance. The family papers from this period afford few extracts of more than private interest. The details of the M°Gillycuddy genealogy will be noticed in pages 189 to 204.

The judgment of "Wentworth" (Lord Strafford) upon the petition of the Widow O Sullivan and her daughters against her son the O Sullivane More.

[Dated 12 Sept 1635.]

[Original]

The humble petic'on of Sheely, alias Giles, Sullyvan, Ellen Sullyvan, and Mary Sullyvan } To the right honourable the Lord deputie & generall of Ireland

Most humbly Shewing, that where your petic'oners, in Aprill last, presented the petic'on, hereunto annexed, unto your Lo'p [Lordship] for your petic'oners' reliefe, whereupon your Lo'p commaunded Owen

Sullivan the defendant to make your petic'oners satisfaction, or to appear and shewe cause unto the contrary :—

Knowe it, right honourable, that the said Owen, haveing intelligence of your petic'oners' proceedinge, he shuned the whole Country, and as it is reported, is gon for England; in soe much that your petic'oners could by no meanes serve his p'son [person] with the said Commaund. By reason of w^{ch}, if your Lo'p afford not your petic'oners speedy reliefe, they are utterly undone; in regards they cannot receive their portione, nor any consideration for the forberance of the same, towards their maintenance, according the awarde in the petic'on hereunto annexed menc'oned—demaunde be just) to prescribe such course, ... be for your petic'oners' p'nt reliefe. And your petic'oners shall ever pray &c.

Your Lo'p may be therefore pleased . . . . . .
the examinac'on of your petic'oners complaint . . . .

Dublin Castle 19 Junii 1635.

Wee referr this matter unto the next goeing Judges of Assize for the County of Kerry, to be taken into Considerac'on; & to give such order therein as shalbe fitt & requisite.

WENTWORTH.

May it please your Lo'p. Apud Trally 3° die Augusti 1635.

According yo^{r} Lo'p's reference, wee have ysued proces ag^{t} th'above named Owen ô Sullivane to app'e before us, to answere th'above complaint, and the pl'nt's have indevoured to serve him therewth. But it app'ed unto us, that the def^{t} is in England. Nevertheles wee thought fitt to enter into the examinac'on of the complaint, w^{ch} wee have accordinglie fully examined, and find aswell by the testimony of sufficient wittness as alsoe by the reading of the will, and award, in the petic'on menc'oned, y^{t} the petic'oners' demands are iust. And doe therefore thinke fitt, that the petic'oners should forthw'th receive thirtie pounds ster', towards their maintainance, due for three halfe yeeres' interest of their porc'ons, ended att Easter last. And that to be forthw'th levyed by the Sheriffe of the Countie of Kerry, for the time being, of the defendants rents in the said Countie. And we likewise thinke fitt that the petic'oners should be paid ten pounds, ster', att michaelmas next, for the last halfe yeeare of the two yeares in the Award menc'oned. And wee doe further think fitting that then the petic'oners, or theire ffeoffees in the Award menc'oned, should be enfeoffed & established in the possession of threescore pounds per Annum out of the rents and revenues of the defend^{t}, to be enioyed by them, or to their uses, and towards their maintenaunce, untill theire porc'ons be paid, according the tenour of the Award. All w^{ch}, in obedience of yo^{r} Lo'p's refference, wee certifie and leave to yo^{r} Lo'ps considerac'on.

Ed^{d} Harrys Hu: Cressy.

Dublin Castle 12. Sept. 1635.

Uppon perusal & considerac'on had of the above Certificat from the Judges of Assize, wee thinke it fitt both to ratifie and confirme the course prescribed by them for the petic'oners' satisfaccon. And, therefore, the Sheriff of the County of Kerry, for the tyme being, is required to leavy aswell the Thirty pounds already due, as alsoe the Tenn pounds due att Mich'as next. And from that tyme foorth, the petic'oners are to be established in the possession of Threescore pounds, ster', p' Annu', of the rents and profitts of the Def^{ts} lands, towards their maintenance, untill their porc'ons be paid, according to the tenour & purporte of the Adward in the Certificat mentioned.

Order by the Supreme Council of the Confederate Catholics for the apprehension of the O Sullivane More.

[Dated 14. July 1646.]

[Original]

Bunratty 14° Julij 1646. By the Supreame Counceell &c

WHEREAS wee have written severall tymes formerly for Owen o Sullivane more, and that he, in manifest contempt and disobedience to our authoritie, hath failed to appeare before us, you are therefore hearby required forthw'th to apprehend the p'son of the said o Sullivane more and him to bring imediatly before us, to be further dealt w'th as shalbe thought fitt. And in case you may not find out the said o Sullivane more, you are to cesse w'th Capt[n] Gerott fz Morice his Troope and foott companie, on the said o Sullivane's lands, and continue him soe cessed untill he p'sonally appears before us as aforesaid, and likewise restore unto Donnogh m[t] Gillycuddy Esq[r] the goods menc'oned in the petition, exhibitted by him before us, ag[t] the said o Sullivane Moore. And the said horse and foott soe cessed are to have competent meate, drinke, and lodgings, together w'th halfe pay according to the establishm[t], duringe the tyme they continue cessed on the said lands, and if there be any rescue or resistance you are alsoe to raise the power of the Countie to be aydais unto you in the excecuc'on of this our order.

To the high Sheriffe of the County of Kerry who uppon his utmost p'ill is to see this our order putt in speedy excecuc'on.

Report of the Referees appointed by the Supreme Council to examine the claim of the Knight of Kerry to receive Chief rent out of M'Gillycuddy's lands.

[Dated 12 august 1646]

[Original]

[Endorsed] Concerning the Cheefrent challenged by John fitz Gerald off m^c Gillycuddy.

In obedience to the right ho^ble the supreame Councell theire order of refferrence to us directed, beareinge date at Limerick the 24^th of July 1646, requireinge and aucthorizeinge us to take the petic'on of Donnogh m^c Gillecuddie Esq^re into Considerac'on, touchinge a Chiefe rent challenged by the Receiver Generall of the county of Kerry to be due out of parte of the said pet^r and his ffreeholders' estates unto the K^t of Kerry. By vertue of w^ch refference and aucthority wee have examined Seaven very auncient wittnesses, whoe voluntaryly haveinge taken theire Corporall oaths uppon the Holy Evangelist depose and say, that they and every of them haveinge lived uppon parte of the said lands, whereout the said Cheefe rent is challenged to be due; that, dureinge the continuance of three Comocions or insurrecc'ons, w'thin theire memory happeninge, the said cheife rent was never paied to the said K^t of Kerry, his auncestors nor any other deriveinge under him; and for theire cause of knowledge say that, w'thin theire memory, a prey beinge taken by some of the K^t's auncestors', allyes or servants', and carryed to Kilforglen Castle, one Daniell Garreltaigh, alias m^c Gillecuddy, pursued the same to the said Castle, where he forced restituc'on of the said prey of Cowes, except one w'ch was slaughtered, the flesh and hide of w'ch Cowe was alsoe then restored unto him. They further depose that, by relac'on of their auncestors, they were credibly tould that much blood was spilt, twixt the pet^r's auncestors and the said K^t's auncestors, uppon any attempt made to take away preyes for the same. And p'ticulerly they depose and say, by relac'on as aforesaid, that one Cnogho^r finine m^c Gillecuddy, beinge killed in reskeweinge a prey taken for the said cheife rent, m^c Gillecuddy, nicknamed Pleggerd, did prey and kill divers of the Barony of Cortoguiny for assistinge the said K^t when the said Cnogho^r finine m^c Gillecuddy was soe killed. And lastly they depose that the said cheife rent was never reduced to any pecuniary payment untill the beginninge of the last peace, at w'ch time the then K^t of Kerry, w'th his kinsmen and allyes, Comonly called ffarroboge, came into parte of the pet^rs Estate, where Cesseinge, pilladgeinge, and preyeinge the reliques of the pet^rs Grandfather's freeholders and followers, by w'ch Compulsary course the said cheife rent was reduced to Certeinty, as it continued untill the beginninge of the present troubles. Soe as it clearely appeares unto us that the payment of the said Cheife rent in times of trouble, Comoco'n, & warrs ought, and is to surcease and abate, and, for the right, doe leave the same to better Judgm^ts. All w'ch wee humbly Certify. Dat^d 12^o Augustii, a^o 1646 thereunto, as they were transmitted from Ireland, and as they were amended here, with all orders of us and our Councell, and Warrents for grants, clauses and provisos, and what alterac'ons have been made of matters once ordered and settled, and how the whole settlem^{t} now stands, as farr as cann bee; and to represent any Defect of Papers, orders or Warrants, to justifie any clauses incerted contrary to or inconsistant with the said Declaration. W'ch Com'ittee have made theire Report to us in Councell the two and twentieth day of June last past, and the same being read and considered, it did appeare y^{t} many Papers, writeings, warrents, records, reports, Decrees, Directions, orders, acts of Councell, proceedings, entries, Surveyes, Inquisitions, and other matters and things necessary to enable them to give us the informac'on wee required, were wanting or not before them, soe as they could not make soe exact and full a report of all the p'ticulars wee had given them in charge, as wee expected. And haveing thereupon, by advice of our Councell, resolved, and soe declared in Councell, that wee would have an exact knowledge of all y^{e} Particulars, and of the Disposall of all y^{e} L^{ds}, Tenem^{ts}, and Hereditam^{ts} in Ireland, which were escheated or forfeited, or reputed to bee soe, or otherwise belongeing to us, our Royall ffather, or w'ch by Surveise, Inquisicions, or otherwise, were found forfeited, Escheated, or otherwise belonging to our said ffather, or our selfe, or which, in pursuance of the acts of Parliam^{t}, made in the Seaventeenth and Eighteenth yeare of the Raigne of our said ffather, for Adventurers in England, or by any other authoritie or power which governed in our absence beyond the seas, were distributed and disposed, seized or sequestred, or allotted, or Remaineing, in the hands of the late usurpers, and by what order and authoritie they have beene granted, and Disposed, and by whome they are possessed, and what part of them remaines yett undisposed, or Concealed from the Crowne. And to these ends it would be necessary to appoint, and give authority to some Persons, with fitt Instructions to guide them therein, and power to require Informac'on and helpes necessary from all our officers and Ministers of England and Ireland. KNOW yee that wee, in pursuance of our said Resoluc'on, and Declared intentions, and reposeing especiall Trust and confidence in the wisdome, abilitie, and Circumspection, of you the said Prince, Geo' Duke of Buc', Arthur Earle of Anglesey, Jo Earle of Lauderdale, Anthony L^{d} Ashley, Denziel L^{d} Hollis, S^{r} Jo Trevor & S^{r} Tho Chichley, have named constituted and appointed, and by these p'sents doe

M'Gillycuddy's petition to be restored to the remainder of his Estate, and for the Quitrent due on his lands.

[Dated 27. May 1674]

There are two copies of this petition.

[Endorsed] The Petic'on of Lieu^t^ Co^ll^ Donogh MacGillycuddy. Rec^d^ 27^th^ May 1674 & then read in Councell.

To the King's most Excellent Mat^ie^.

The humble Petic'on of Lieu^t^ Col' Donogh Mac Gillycuddy

Sheweth

THAT your Mat^ie^ was Graciously pleased by your Royall Letters of ye 18^th^ of Aprill 1661 (a Copy whereof is hereunto annexed) in Considerac'on of the Pet^r's^ Loyalty Sufferings and Services in the said Letter expressed, to order that your Pet^r^ might be forth w^th^ restored to his Estate [in your] Ma^ts^ Kingdome of Ireland, pursuant whereunto your Pet^r^ became possessed thereof.

That the Com^rs^ of the late Court of Claimes in that Kingdome have past Certificates of almost all your Pet^r's^ said Estate to severall soldiers, but ye lands being Course and unproffitable and not worth the Quittrent reserved thereupon, the said Sould^rs^ have therefore neglected taking out Letters Pattents pursuant to their said Certificates whereby the said Lands are now become waste.

Wherefore, and for that your Ma^ts's^ Gracious Intentions have been all along that the Pet^r^ should be restored to his said Estate, his humble prayer is your Ma^tie^ now will graciously please to restore him to as much thereof as is now in your Ma^ts's^ disposall, reserving thereout to your Ma^tie^ the former Crowne Rent (the Lands not being worth the new Quittrent) and farther to grant unto your Pet^r^ the new Quittrents reserved to your Ma^tie^ on the rest of your Pet^r's^ Estate

And your Pet^r^ shall pray &c.

That in ye beginning of ye late warrs in Ireland, in ye year 1641, yor Petr was then a Minor, and in Wardship, and had no hand in any of ye troubles of that time, nor was of any Army, untill that, in ye year 1648, yor Petr raised a Company of ffoot at his owne proper cost & charges and served therewith under ye Earle of Insiquin, then Comanding yor Ma'tie's Forces in ye Province of Munster in yor Matie's Kingdome of Ireland. And afterwards, when yor Ma'tie's Cause was declineing in that your Kingdome, yor Petr, out of his good affection to yor Mats service, voluntarily made up Six Companies of ffoot of his owne neere kinsmen and relations, and had his Grace ye Duke of Ormond's Comission to serve with them as Lieutent Colonel to ye late Lord of Muskrie's Regiment, in wch Imployment yor Petr faithfully served, untill ye laying downe of Armes of yor Mats party there [being* made prisoner by ye Enemy and haveing received severall wounds in yt time] after wch yor Petr betooke himselfe to forraigne parts [and on your Maties arrival in flanders tendered his service to yor Matie and was ready and] where he continued obedient to yor Mats comands.

yo^r Ma^tie's gracious Declarac'on for ye Settlement of that your Kingdome of Ireland, your Ma^tie was graciously pleased by your Royall Letters [directed to y^e Lords Justices of Ireland] dated ye 18^th of Aprill 1661 (a Copy whereof is hereunto annexed) to order that yo^r Pet^r should be restored to his Estate, pursuant to which yo^r Pet^r was put in possession thereof [of his hole estate] w^thout y^e least hindrance. But y^e Act of Settlement being soone after enacted [and there being a clause therein y^t none should be deemed innocent who injoyed any Estate Real or personall in ye Irish quarters, because of that qualification] it was as well yo^r Pet^r's misfortune, as y^e fate of many others, that he could not come to a tryall of his Innocence, by reason of ye shortnesse of time allowed by [by y^e Rules of y^e said Act & of y^e Explanatory Act] the said Act, so that since that time yo^r Pet^r's Estate is Decreed [directed] away to' others, whereby y^r Pet^r is miserably left destitute of maintenance for himselfe & many children, contrary to yo^r Ma^ts gracious intentions in Favour of y^e Pet^r.

Yet, in regard y^e said Estate is a large Scope of very course land, and that y^e Quitrent reserved to yo^r Ma^tie thereout, by y^e late acts of Settlement, is farr more than y^e yearly value of it, by means whereof there hath been nothing [not one penny] hitherto paid thereout, unto yo^r Ma^tie, but y^e lands left in Condic'on of wast, yet yo^r Pet' continueth possession of y^e most part thereof, pursuant to yo^r Ma^ts gracious letters bearing date as aforesaid.

May it therefore please y^r Sacred Ma^tie, to take y^e premisses into y^r Royall Considerac'on, and in Comiserac'on of yo^r Pet^r's sad Condic'on, to be graciously pleased to grant unto yo^r Pet^r and his heirs, y^e Quitrents and y^e arrears thereof, due and payable to your Ma^tie out of yo^r Pet^r's said estate [since yo^r Pet^r cannot have the land being Decreed away as aforesaid] towards his maintennance and reliefe; and that y^e Barons of your Ma^ts Court of Excheq^r may be required, as often as y^e said lands or any part thereof, shall be in arreare of Quittrent and lay wast, to give yo^r Pet^r and his heirs a Custodium thereof, they answering & satisfieing in proportion y^e Ancient Crowne Rents payable into yo^r Ma^tie's Excheq^r in y^e yeare 1641

And your Pet^r will Ever pray &c

The humble pett^{n} of L^{t} Coll' Donogh MacGillycuddy

THAT yo^{r} pett^{r} lately prefered a pett^{n} unto yo^{r} Ma'tie, setting foorth that yo^{r} Matie was grateously pleased to graunte unto yo^{r} pett^{r} yo^{r} Royall letters, dated the 18th of Aprill 1661, to be restored unto his Estate, in consideration of his loyalltie, service, & sufferings, as in yo^{r} Ma'tie's said letters is fullie expressed. And that in pursuance thereof yo^{r} pet^{r} was put in possession of his Estate, and still continueth the most parte thereof. But so it is, may it please yo^{r} Ma'tie, that the quitrent, imposed on your pet$^{r's}$ said Estate by yo^{r} Ma'tie's comissioners, by vertue of the Acts of Settlement of yo^{r} Ma'tie's Kingdome of Ireland, is far more then the pett$^{r's}$ estate is yearly woorth. DEARE ffather/ yours of the 3d of 9ber I have receaved a lounge agoe, praysed be to God that the gentleman had that overthrowe, I have given you an account in my last how I founde the most part of the people here very could in that of the healpe. I have sence conferred with a great many of them, and gave them time to provide what they could, to see if I could make any thinge considerable up, to be sent you. And in the beginninge, before I tryed them, I had great hopes, but now, I find them soe base and soe unworthy, that I have nott had 20 shill's in this whole parrish; soe that I presume they thinketh that you are doeinge noethinge, and therefore does nott much care wether they send you any thinge or noe. I have had in Bordoneen few Chattle and £4 in moneys. There are a great many of them that shunned me, and others denyinge for good and all. I assure you they are all as much altered as any in the whole Country sence your departure, onely the poorest sort. You had but little hopes to trust unto them, unless they were sensible you were in a condition that they should feare you. I shall endeavour to send you what is remayneing of the little rents, before the latter end of the holly dayes, and if I cann gett any more Chattle from any of them, I presume to keep them to satisfie napper, for we are much in arrears to him now. I have conferred with both my Cou' Cosbies about what you writ of Mr Bat'. My Cou' patricke is willinge to accept of the imployment for him selfe, if my Ld Rannelagh, or any other peere, be concerned in ye revenew for the future. He is sherriffe for the insueinge yeare. Statement of M'Gillycuddy's case laid before Viscount Ranelagh.

[Dated 167$\frac{4}{5}$]

There are three copies of this document, two of which are thus endorsed:— (No 1.) Coll^{l} Donogh mac Gulli[cuddy's] case ab^{t} his arr^{rs} of Quit[rent] & his Pension that there is due to him 300^{l} lack 35^{l}. (No 2) Coll' mac Gullicuddy's [case] before the L^{d} Visc^{t} [Ranelagh] that ye sum'e of 300^{l} of his pension [is] due, except 35^{l} p'd. 12th of Jan'ry 1674.

A State of the case of Coll' Donogh mac Gullicuddy as it stands now before the Lord Ranalagh (vizt.)

That mountanous and barren lands, in the County of Keiry, in the poss'ion of the said Coll' as part of his antient estate, being lately charged by the Comm^{rs} of the Tre'ary with the yearely quitrent of £19 14^{s} 1^{d} and in arreare thereof for severall yeares, the said Lands being not worth neere the said

sum'e became waste, wherefore a Com^n^ issued from the Excheq^r^ for valueing the said lands, Whereupon returne was made that the same were yearely worth £2 3^s^ 9^d^ and noe more, as by Coppy of the said Com^ons^, now ready to bee produced, may appeare. Att w'ch rent S^r^ William Petty agrees with the Com^rs^ of ye Treasury, and procures a writt of Seizure; w'ch was, upon the said Coll^s^ instance, suppressed by the Excheq^r^ as being the said Coll^s^ inheritance and in his poss'ion. The Barrons then saying they doubted not the Com^s^ of the Tre'ary would be kind to him as to ye arreares, at ye yearley charge of 19^li^ 14^s^ 1^d^, since the lands were by Com'ission found to bee really worth noe more then £2 3^s^ 9^d^.

The Coll^l^ offers to pay the arreares at the rate of the said returne, although the said lands were not in charge, and desires that what part of his pension shall remaine due to him after deduction at ye rate of £2 3^s^ 9^d^ may be paid him, and he noe further troubled for the arreares of £19 14^s^ 1^d^; the yeares rent at that rate being more then the purchas of all the lands charged: which rent of £2 3^s^ 9^d^ he conceaves ought to be accepted from him as well as from S^r^ William Petty.

Now soe it is that of 300^li^ pension the said Coll received but 35^li^, the remainder being stopt for the arreres at the rate of £19 14^s^ 1^d^ as aforesaid, as by a certificate from S^r^ John Champante, ready to be produced, may appeare. The said Coll^l^ did also sett forth, in a petic'on to his Ma^tie^, that, by vertue of his Mat^s^ Privy signet, he became poss'ed of his estate in the yeare 1661, and that afterwards the said estate was decreed to Sould^rs^ by the Com^s^ of the Court of Claimes, of w'ch, by reason of the weight of the quitrent, they declyned to passe Lett^rs^ Pattents; by meanes whereof the Coll^l^ continueth his poss'ion, but the lands wast. Wherefore he prayed his Ma^tie^ to grant him the quit rent. The contents whereof was refered to the L^d^ Ranelagh to returne his oppinion to his Ma^tie^, w'ch is not yet done by his Lordshipp.

Wherefore the Coll' offers to the L^d^ Ranalagh's considerac'on, to be reported to his Ma^tie^, his faithfull services and sufferings for his Ma^tie^ at home and abroad; his great charge of wife and ten children, and alsoe his late service in appeareing against S^r^ William Petty, by w'ch, as is well knowne to his Majestie in Councill, he preserved to his Ma^tie^ ten thousand pounds, w'ch are and will grow due to his Ma^tie^ from the said Petty, which none else but the said Coll^l^ could make out at that time.

Digitized by Google

And therefore humbly conceaves that if his Ma^tie may be pleased to allow defaulcation upon acc^t of setleing the Coll^r in his estate, the said Coll^r hath saved much more to his Ma^tie then ye said defaulcation may come unto, in opposeing the said S^r William Petty, besides his merritts by suffering long imprisonments for his Ma^tie, and receiveing desperate wounds, and the losse of many relations in his Ma^tie's service.

and faithfull services and sufferings, he obteined his Ma^tie's letters of the 18^th of Aprill, 1661, for restoreing him to his ancient estate in Ireland, and thereupon got into the possession therof, w^ch he quietly enioyed untill the year 1664, when, by the contrivance of S^r William Petty and others, the greatest part of his estate was given away from him, and the least share, consisting most of mountainous and unprofitable land, he still enioyed. That upon a late petition to his Ma^tie for a reducement of the quitrents of the lands of Karhunahones, Ardlaghis, Bancluone & Shanderries, with the lands of Aulogh & Shanicashell, under severall denominations, commonly called thirtiefive cowes grasse, being of the pett^r's ancient estate, & most of them decreed to him in the late coorte of claymes, & the remaine neather seised or sequestred, all of them barren and mountainous, it was ordered that the pet^r should answer out of those lands the fourth part of the vallew of the same. Wherefore humbly praying his Ma^tie to grant his Royall letters for passeing the said lands into letters pattents unto him & his heires, reserveing to his Ma^tie the fourth part of the vallew thereof, His Ma^tie hath thought fit to recomend the said Leuten^t Col^r Macgillycuddy unto y^r Lo^p, and that his pett^n & requeste be taken into consideration by y^r Lo^p, and that yo^r Lo^p doe affood him such releef, both as to the abatement of his quitrents & the patent desired, as the merits of his Cause & sufferings doe deserve, & as may consist with the present rules and directions that are given for thinges of this nature, which by his Ma^tie's comaunde we signifie unto yo^r Lo^p. M'Gillycuddy's application to the Lord Lieutenant for letters patent of his estate, with his Excellency's order thereupon.

[Dated in 1676]

To his Excel' Arthur, E^le^ of Essex, L^d^ L^t^ G'rall, and G'r^ll^ Gov^r^ of Ireland.

The humble Pet^n^ of L^t^ Coll' Donogh mac Gillicuddie,

Most humbly sheweth,—

That by a L're, directed to yo^r^ Ex'cie from the Lords of his Ma^tie's^ Privy Councill in England, dated from the Court at Whitehall the 28th of June 1676, thereby setting forth that yo^r^ Pet^r^, in considerac'on of his Loyalty and long and faythfull services and sufferings, obtained his Ma^tie's^ L^rs^ of the 18^th^ of Aprill 1661 for restoreing him to his auntient Estate in this Kingdome; and thereupon had gott into possession thereof. But that the most part thereof was since disposed of to others, & the least share thereof, consisting of Mountaines and unproffitable lands, he still enjoyed. And that upon a late Pet^n^ of his, the said Donogh m^c^Gillicuddy, to his Ma^tie^ for the reducem^t^ of the Quitt-rent of the lands of Karrunahones, Ardlaghis, Banecluone, and Shanderryes, w^th^ the lands of Aulogh and Shanicashell, under severall Denominac'ons, comonly called thirtyfive Cowes grasse, being all of the s^d^ pet^r's^ auntient Estate, and most part thereoff never seized or sequestred— And praying his Ma^tie^ to grant his Royall L^rs^ for passing the said lands in L^rs^ Pattents to him and his heires, reserveing to his Ma^tie^ the fourth part of the vallue of the same. The said L^ds^ of his Majestie's Privy Council, by his Ma^tie's^ Comand, thought fitt to recomend unto y^r^ Ex'cie the pet^r^, and his pet^n^, and requeste, to be taken into considerac'on by y^r^ Ex'cie, & that y^r^ Ex'cie should afford him such reliefe, as to the abatem^t^ of his Quitt-rent, and the pattent desired, as the meritt of his Cause and sufferings doe deserve, & may consist with the p'sent Rules and direccons that are given for thinges of this nature. That yo^r^ pet^r^ hath p'sented the s^d^ Letter to your Ex'cie, and, as he was advised, [did] claime the benefitt thereof [before your] Ex'cie and the rest of the Com^rs^ for reducemt of Quittrents, and obtained your orders for reduceing the Quittrents of the said lands, in all thirty pounds seaven shillings five pence

Letters Patent from Charles II. for M'Gillycuddy's lands in Kerry.

[Dated 7 May 1678]

[Parchment. Original]

N.B.—The words between brackets [ ] have been supplied from the Inrolment in the Court of Chancery, by the kind permission of James Morrin, Esq.

CHARLES THE SECOND, BY THE GRACE OF GOD, OF ENGLAND, Scotland, ffrance & Ireland, King, defender of the faith, &c, To all to whome these p'sent shall come, Greeting. WHEREAS, upon reading the petic'on of Lieu^{t} Coll' Donough m^{c} Gillicuddy before us in Councell, wee did thinke fitt, in considerac'on of his loyalty, & long faithfull services & sufferings, by o^{r} l'res of the eighteenth day of Aprill, one thousand six hundred & sixty one, to direct that he should be restored to his Auntient estate in o^{r} said Kingdome of Ireland. And whereas y^{e} said Donogh m^{c} Gilliecuddy was thereupon, by o^{r} Com^{rs} for executeing y^{e} Act of Settlem^{t} & Explanac'on, adjudged to be confirmed as a Letteree in y^{e} sev'all lands, tenem^{ts} & hereditam^{ts} hereafter menc'oned, & settled in the Actuall poss'ion thereof. And Whereas, the said lands being very mountainous & unp'fitable, hee did afterwards humbly petic'on us for a reducem^{t} of y^{e} Quittrents charged on y^{e} said lands which were soe letreed unto him, And that Wee shouldbe gratiously pleased to grant o^{r} Royal L'res for y^{e} passing y^{e} said lands in l'res patent unto him & his heires, reserveing onely a fourth p't of y^{e} vallue thereof unto us, o^{r} heires & successors. All which the [lords of o^{r}] privy Councell of England did, by o^{r} comand, by their l'res bearing date, the Court att Whitehall, y^{e} eight & twentieth day of June, one thousand six hundred & seaventy six, recomend to our Right trusty & welbeloved Cozin & Councellor, Arthur, Earle of Essex, o^{r} late Leiu^{t} gen'all & gen'all Governor of o^{r} said Kingdome of Ireland, & to o^{r} cheiffe Governor there for ye tyme being. And that they should afford y^{e} said Leiu^{t} Coll' m^{c} Gillecuddy such releiffe, both [to the abatem^{t}] of his quittrents, and granting of l'res pattent, as [was desired]. Whereas the said Leiu^{t} Coll' m^{c} Gillicuddy thereupon p'ferred his petic'on unto y^{e} said Arthur, Earle of Essex, o^{r} late Leiu^{t} Gen'all of o^{r} said Kingdome of Ireland, & unto o^{r} right trusty & right well beloved [Councillor Michael, Lord Archbishop of Dublin our Chancellor of our said Kindome of Ireland, Sir Charles Meredith, Kn^{t}, Chancellor of our Exchequer there, and Sir Robert] Booth, Kn^{t}, o^{r} Cheiffe Justice of o^{r} Court of Comon Pleas, in o^{r} said Kingdome of Ireland, o^{r} late Com^{rs} appointed & Impowered by o^{r} Comission, under o^{r} greate seale of Ireland, bearing date y^{e} eight & twentieth day of June, in y^{e} yeare of o^{r} Lord one thousand six hundred & seaventy six, for reduceing & abateing of Quittrent & the arreares thereof, setting forth that the lands of Carhunahones, Ardlaghis, Banecluone & Shandarryes, conteyning in all two thousand acres, plantation measure, in the Barony of Dunkieran, in o^{r} County of Kerry, are his Auntient Estate & now Inioyed by him, and that y^{e} same are verry course and barren mountaine lands, and that y^{e} yearly quitt rent thereof according to y^{e} rates [Imposed thereon by y^{e} Act of Sett]lem^{t} & Explanac'on (which is three pence for every English statute acre in y^{e} p'vince of Munster) doth amount to thirty pounds seaven shillings five pence farthing p' Ann', and that y^{e} yearly vallue thereof, by y^{e} civill Survey, did amount to y^{e} sum of twenty eight [pounds four shillings & noe] more, & prayed a reducem^{t} of y^{e} said [new] quittrent payable to us thereout, and upon hearing of y^{e} said petic'on, & Examinac'on of Wittnesses upon Oath concerning y^{e} yearly vallue of y^{e} said lands, Itt appeared unto o^{r} said

May it Please your hon^rs^,

In obedience to your Ord^r^ of refferrence, I have examined the contents of the Petition of Cornelius McGilly-Cuddy, hereunto annexed, and finde the lands of Dunlow, and severall other lands in the county of Kerry, granted by the Certificate of the Com^rs^ of the late Court of Claimes unto Coll' Pritty and others, for the 3 Regim^ts^, were granted in Custodiam, by the Court of Exchq^r^, to John Ellis, Esq^r^ for his Mat^tie's^ use, in June, 1683, and by yo^r^ hon^rs'^ agreem^t^ and directions sett by him a Lease to the Pett^r^, att the Rent of 340^li^, to commence 25^th^ March, 83, and to continue dureing the said Custodiam.

I alsoe finde, by a Le're dated the 8^th^ Sept 83, written by M^r^ Ellis to the then Coll^r^, M^r^ Barth: Babe, wherein he directs that upon the complaint of the Pett^r^, that if the Pett^r^ should take the lands forthwith, and give such security as the Coll^r^ should approove off, that he should sett him the same at the Rent of 280^li^ per ann; w'ch I finde the said Coll^r^ did accordingly.

I alsoe finde, by a Certificate from the said Coll^r^, that he gave poss'on thereof the 2^nd^ day of October 1683, and the Pett^r^ praies he might be charged w^th^ no Rent but from the time he was put in poss'on thereof as aforesaid. I alsoe find, by the affid^t^ hereunto annexed, that there are several lands w^ch^ were in the said custod' and sett to the Pett^r^ as aforesaid, w'ch he could not enjoy, the vallue whereof by the said affidavitt appeares to be 63^li^ 7^s^ p' Ann.

I alsoe finde the Pett^r^ hath paid, on acc^t^ of the said Lease, to the said Coll^r^, 492^li^ 9^s^ 1¼^d^, and to M^r^ Christop^r^ Carleton the sum'e of 106^li^ 4^s^ 8^d^, soe that, accounting the Rent att 280^li^ p' ann, from the time the Pett^r^ was put in poss'on as aforesaid, I finde he is chargeable, for 3 yeares and halfe rent due at Easter last, the sum'e of 980^li^, and if your hon^rs^ should allow the Pett^r^ the sum'e of 63^li^ 7^s^ p' ann., for the lands he could not enjoy as aforesaid, for the said time, it amounts to 221^li^ 14^s^ 6^d^ w'ch with the 492^li^ 9^s^ 1¼^d^ paid to M^r^ Babe, and 106li 4s 8d to Mr Carleton, amounts to the sum'e of 820li 8s 3¼d; w'ch being deducted out of the said Charge, there remains due from the Pettr at Easter the sum'e of 159li 11s 8¾d.

But I humbly conceive the Pettr ought to pay the Rent from the date of the said Custodium, because the said Lands were in Custod' before, and the Lease commences from the 25th March 1683; and if your hons should be of that opinion, the Pettr is to be charged w'th the ½ y'rs Rent due att Mich'as 83, w'ch amounts to 140li; whereof if your honrs should allow for the lands he did not enjoy, w'ch comes to 21li 6s, it will be 118li 14s.

I alsoe conceive the lands withheld from the Pettr, tho' they were worth 63li 7s p' ann, as by the affidt is sworne, Yett the vallue thereof, in proportion to the whole lands, amounts unto but 42li 12s; and if yr honrs should be of opinion the Pettr ought to be allowed no more abatemt p' ann', then the Pettr would be charged with, besides the 118li 14s for the ½ y'rs Rent due as aforesaid, the sum'e of 72li 12s 6d; w'ch two sumes being added to the 159li 11s 8¾d due from the Pettr att Easter 87 as aforesaid, I finde the whole due from the Pettr att Easter 87 amounts to 350li 18s 2¾d

Dublin the 26 of Aprill. 88.

Dearest Brother

I HAVE receaved no Certeayne newes out of England but that Roger Mc Elligot is Coll[l], and my Nephew Lt Coll[l]. Theire officers, for the most p'te, are out of Holland soe yt I had noe Conveniance to write to them by reason of my marching to Kilkenny, where wee mustered the 18th of Apr'. From thence I Came to Dublin wher I expect daylie my frinds. They are to make up theire regts, tenn out of each companie in Irland, and some of theire officers that came over heer sayes that they are to goe for England, and theire quarters are made reddie for them in Chester. My Lord deputie sayes that hee hath twelfe officers to put in himselfe. There are manie here that puts in for theire places. Maior generale Macarthy is here, unto whom I intend to speake. I hoape you have not forgott to write in my behalfe to London. I hoape I will see you heere very soone, for I am sure you may doe my bussines if not done before, w'ch is all from y^r^ affectionat Brother and Ser^t^ to Command

Co^r^ m^c^Gillycuddy

[Addressed] ffor Coll' m^c^Gillycuddie in the Countie of Kierry

In a different and later hand is written on other parts of this letter the following:—

John Castel hath discoursed w^th^ Councellor Langane and hath advised w^th^ him in the behalfe of John o Breene. His advise is to gett a habeas Corpus, and inter a bill, in ye Chancerie of the excheq^r^, against the Kinge, by reason he is kept in Goale by vertue of a leavere out of the excheq^r^, and when the refference is shewed to my L^d^ Chiefe Barron, he will thereupon order him to be released or els accept of any securities upon the habeas Corpus. If the bill is entered none will answeare itt. By that the poore man will be released.

Itt were good if Donough, Cornelius, and Teige, were soe diligent and successful in their studies as our friends f^ns^, Daniell and flor' ffearys.

These 3 suffered extreame want this moneth ended. Itt's nott to be imputed to me who am nott able to give Contentment to my owne and their childeren. There relation there must be mindefull of them 3 child^r^.

I wish my said nephew and neece make my coussen morigh fearis knowe when they are paid. Itt were better to lett yorselfe knowe itt, if you pleased to lett me knowe itt, I doe nott knowe M^r^ Cornelius his hand.

The Petition of Sir Valentine Browne and Captain Thomas Browne for reduction of Quit-rent.

To his Grace the Duke of Ormond, Lord L^t^ Gen^ll^ & Gen^ll^ Gov^r^ of Ireland.

The humble Petic'ons of Sr Vallentine Browne, Bar^t^. & of Captn Thomas Browne

Most humbly shew,—

That the said Sr Vallentine Browne his father dyed in or about the yeare 1640, the s^d^ Sr Vallentine Browne the now Pet^r^ being then an infant of two years old whose wardship was granted to yo^r^ Grace.

That the other Pet^r^ Capt Thomas Browne was likewise at the time of the death of his ffather an infant & was but tenn yeares old when the Rebellion broke out in the yeare 1641, & that from the time that hee was able to beare armes he served his Ma^tie^ in forrein partes.

That both the Pet^rs^ were decreed Innocents in the late Courte of Claymes, noe possible pretence appearing to the contrarie either against them being Infants, or against theire ffathers who Dyed before the Rebellion, yet are they by the strict letter of the Act of Explanation Liable to the Quitt rent, which if charged on them according to the rule of acres directed by the Act of Settlem^t^ will amount to, if not exceed, the full value of their Land therewith charged ;—The Lands they hould in the County of Kieray & in the remotest part of the County of Corke being the most barren Land of all Ireland.

To the end therefore that they, whose Innocence could meet with no manner of opposition, may not suffer in so high a measure as is in effect the loss of theire whole Estate, if the Extremitie of the Quitt rent be sought from them in proportion to the number of acres appearing by the Surveyor Generall his Certificate annexed,

Doe most humbly beseech yo^r^ Grace to give Order that the Levying thereof bee respited untill on ffurther aplication they bee freed thereof, or that it bee moderated, they in y^e^ mean time paying the former Patent Rent.

& the Pet^rs^ will pray.*

The State of the County of Kerry and the Baronies of Beare and Bantry in 1673.

[The following Paper is taken from "Collections concerning the Execution of the Acts of Settlement and Explanation." Liber M. fo. 353. Record Tower, Dublin Castle].

Report on the State of the County of Kerry and the Baronies of Bere and Bantry.

[Dated March 27, 1673]

To His Excellency the Lord Lieutenant of Ireland.

In obedience to your Excellencie's order of y^e^ 24 March last We, the under named Justeces of the Peace for y^e^ Countie of Kerry, have considered the state and condition of the three Baronies of Iveragh, Dunkerran, and Glanerought, within the said county, unto which wee conceive the condition of Beare and Bantry to be very like, and doe upon the whole matter finde that the said four baronies are obnoxious unto the following evills: viz^t^.:

First, to be preyed upon by any enemies shipping, Pickaroons, and that the people thereof are under many temptations and have many opportunities to correspond and comply with such vessels for their relief and refreshment, as may appear by the situation of y^e^ land, condition of y^e^ people hereafter mentioned and several late instances.

That y^e^ said country, being inhabited, for y^e^ most parte, by such people as are concerned to oppose y^e^ present laws, and that others being not enough in number to procure the execution of what the Magistrate commands, It hath happened that the Ministers of Justice have been so abused in their persons and goods, that they have been either terrified from proceeding in their duty, or else wearied into a compliance with or connivance at those whom they before sought to punish.

The cause of which two General Evills wee humbly conceave to be as followeth: viz^t^. —

First, For that the remotest part of these Baronies are 180 English miles from Dublin, and near 40 miles from the places where Assizes and Sessions are held, and y^e^ way for y^e^ last 30 or 40 miles are the worst of all Ireland, unpassable in the winter time, and require an hour's riding, with much trouble and danger, for each mile, so as the Ministers of Justice cannot from the inhabitants of those places (who are very poor) find any satisfaction for their troublesome journey after them. Nor will the causes wherein those poor people are concerned bear the chardge of sending men to make affidavits or to be witnesses &c. in them: Nor are there yet Manors enough erected in a sufficient order to try small matters upon the place.

2. In all the said Baronies, being 100 miles in compass, there is resident but one Minister, and he without Churchwardens or Service-Booke, officiating only now and then in one place, and who although he have above £300 due to him is now ready to perish for want of maintenance, and so vexed by the injuries and abuses done him by the Papists, that he findes it easier to suffer than to seeke reliefe: whilst the country aboundeth with unnecessary Priests and Officers and Friars, exacting large allowances from y^e^ people, and with youth learning of needless Latin instead of useful trades.

3. The country is soe thin peopled that there is above 66 English acres of Land for every man woman and child that is within it; and these soe poore that untill very lately there was not in them tenn houses of two chimnies in each—not one inhabitant in them all able to bear the office of Justice of the Peace or Sheriff. Noe kinde of Manufacture or fishing (but oysters at low water) even in this place, which before the discovery of Newfoundland was the fishery of Europe; and no employment but the grazing of small cattle in the summer time without making any hay for the winter; but a general face of poverty and rudeness hath overspread it untill within these five last years that the Trades of Iron, Lead, Timber, Shipping, Rape seed, fishing of all sort, Tanning and several other trades subservient thereunto, hath been with great difficulty introduced by one or two persons. Soe as the people, by reason of their poverty and the fastness of the country, are irresponsible either by their bodyes or goods for anything they did amiss. Nor was there any Magistrate upon the place to examine their actings.

4. The said country is not only thin peopled in generall but the proportion of English and Protestants is smaller here than in most parts of Ireland; for in y^e^ said three Baronies of Kerry, consisting of Thirteen Parishes, there are not at the time tenn Protestant families in Eleven of the said Thirteen parishes, that is to say, not above one in 150 families of the Papists, as may appear by the Collector of Hearth Moneys for the said Parishes for y^e^ said countrey, nor were the other two parishes better furnished till within these four yeares Sir William Petty erected Iron Works in them.

5. The countrey was, by the last Powers that subdued it, laid wast for many years, soe as it was death for any man, woman, or childe to be seen in it. Neither, since the Militia hath been settled all over the Kingdom, hath there been any notice taken of this place, either to protect it by part of the Army or by a Militia of it's own, even from an enemy's long-boat, which with 40 Musqueteers may do what they please with this country. Nor at this time of speciall danger is there a garrison in any other part of the County of Kerry—nor since the suspension of the Presidencey [of Munster] are the forces which were here under any command that's clearly understood.

6. From the year 1657 to the year 1668 It is manifest that there hath been a strange destruction of woods, and vast numbers of Pipe, Hogshead and Barrell staves exported, yet such was the universall Confederacy of the Irish in this particular, that though they are all probably guilty, yet not one man can be convicted of what many hundreds must needs be guilty. Besides many malefactors have fled into this countrey, either to hide or shipp themselves away.

Nor do the country people, for fear of their lives or burning of their houses, dare refuse to entertain such persons and other soldiers against whom there are Express statutes in this Kingdom. Nor are there here Justices of the Peace, able to do what is fitting in this matter for one cause or other.

7. The Irish of this country are all branches of a few families, and chiefly of the Sullivans and Carthys—but most of the Sullivans—they having been late Proprietors of most of y^e^ Lands here, as may appear by the Surveys upon record. And t'is certain that the Three Cheif of the Sullivans themselves, namely O'Sullivan More, O'Sullivan Beare, and MacGillicuddie, although neither of them were adjudged Innocent, nor have any benefit under the late Act of Settlement, do nevertheless viis et modis enjoy considerable parts of their Estates, and that without paying Quit Rent unto His Majestie for y^e^ same as even Innocents are obliged to do, whereby they are enabled to engage great numbers of their names and families to assist them in such their trespasses and intrusions. Besides the last of these three hath lately acted as Justice of the Peace himself, whilst the English to whom these Lands are passed in Certificate cannot legally come by them, Patents having been stopped from passing upon such Certificates.

8. The greatest part of these Lands are by a mere misunderstanding of the survey, contrary to the intention of the Explanatory Act, severall of His Majestie's Decrees in the Exchequer, and against common sense itself, chardged with tenn times more Quit Rent than y^e^ Lands were worth at the time of y^e^ first chardging of Quit Rents, which hath occasioned many Pursuivant seizures and Liverys to issue against this countrey; All which have taken little effect by reason it was impossible to pay what was required: But have occasioned many violences and illegal actions by severall persons [and] was y^e^ reason of the first generall evill aforementioned, that is to say, of the countrey's being infested with enemys shipping and their being tempted to favour Pickaroons in the remoteness and fastness of the countrey. It's situation upon y^e^ ocean; and y^e^ multitude of it's creeks and harbours; The poverty, thinness, & insolvency of the people, as also their confederates ill will towards those who have gotten their lands, together with the plenty of cattle which are a refreshment to such shipping; And lastly the fair excuses they can make for their so doing, as that they were surprised at their fishing and forced to ransom themselves with a little refreshment, &c.

And the reason of the other generall evills, viz^t^. the baffling and eluding of y^e^ laws & Magistracy, are y^e^ aforementioned irresponsibleness of y^e^ people both in their bodyes and goods to answer Lawes,—The multitude & confederacy of the Transgressors too many to be punished,—The stopping of Patents upon Certificates, whereof the old Proprietors doe and their adhearents doe take advantage; And lastly the exacting of more Quit Rents than can be paid, or than the intention of the same requires, and the not settling of the same for all in generall, as hath been done in many particular cases and those not the hardest, which hath necessitated and provoked persons concerned to use extraordinary shifts for their naturall preservation:

For Remedy of all which is humbly offered as followeth:

1. That the ways of the countrey be mended which (although it seems a vast and monstrous undertaking) yet it hath appeared feasible by an effectual experience of this present yeare.

Digitized by Google

2. That the owners of the lands in these baronies might be called upon to erect Manors for y^e^ use of y^e^ people in their small suits.

3. That there be above one hundred English Protestants in these three Baronies able to bear arms, and above thirty of them able and experienced souldiers.

4. That y^e^ said English men, with as many more of y^e^ best affected Irish, may be formed into a Troope of Dragoones and a Company of Foote to defend y^e^ countrey from foreigners, and that the severall fisheries being restored and encouraged, the fishermen now belonging to them, which be about two hundred, and their boates, which may be thirty, may be able to deale with the enemy's long-boates before they can land, as the Militia above mentioned may do afterwards.

5. It is humbly offered, for y^e^ strengthening of y^e^ said militia and containing the most suspected part of them in their due obedience, that some central place of great naturall strength, not above thirty miles distant from the remotest part of the countrey, nor from the River Shannon on the one side and Timoleague Bay on the other side, be thought upon, to be manned with a competent garrison for that purpose, which may by the equal distance be equally distant from the whole West of Ireland, there being such places.

6. That the Ministers, Churches, & Churchwardens, with their necessary appurtenances may be had and maintained, to prevent the contempt of the Protestant party and their Religion, and also their degenerating into Irish and Papist.

7. That all possible endeavours be used to encourage the English and Protestant party to live in the parts especially about the Sea Coasts, upon account of the fishing; As also in some one Central inland part of the whole upon some proper manufacture, so as instead of 150 Irish families for one of English now in the Eleven Parishes aforementioned, there may not be above Six for One, as in y^e^ two other Parishes already planted by Sir William Petty.

Digitized by Google

8. That, by this encouragement of the English, at least two or three English men of good estate and reputation may be enable to reside in this countrey, who by acting as Justices of the Peace may break the practices of Idlers and Cosherers; And dividing the whole people into tithings of families as heretofore, may Cause the Chief of each tithing to be bound for the good behaviour of each person in it, and each for the other and for their forthcoming on occasion; and that Constables of Hundreds, & Sheriffs bailiffs, may (if possible) all be English.

9. That the stop upon passing Letters Patents upon Certificates be removed; and Consequently that the Old Proprietors may be dispossessed in form of Law, and their numerous Kindred and followers not engaged to assist their usurpation any longer.

10. That the Quit Rents of this countrey may be settled according to the intention of y^e^ Law, the express words whereof are that it ought to be so moderate as to consist with the encouragement of Plantation: Moreover, besides the ordinary meanes above mentioned, It is humbly intimated the difficulty of regulating, civilizing, and securing this countrey may neede and desire some extraordinary helpes and consideration.

Lastly. We humbly conceive that the rest of the County of Kerry and parte of the County of Corke are more or less in the same condition with the place above said, and require the same remedy; All which is humbly submitted by

Your Excellency's

Most obedient servants

Herbert.

The Lineage of the M'Gillycuddies from the Third to the Seventeenth Centuries, compiled by William M. Hennessy, Esq., M.R.I.A.

1. The celebrated Prince Oilill Olum, from whom the family of MacGillicuddy, in common with most of the other distinguished families of Munster, is descended, is represented by the old Irish genealogists as the 43rd in direct descent from Milidh, or Milesius. His death is entered in the Annals of the Four Masters under the year A.D. 234, where he is called King of Munster. His father, Mogh Nuaghad, waged a fierce war against the Irish Monarch, Conn of the Hundred Battles, whom he compelled to agree to a division of Ireland. The historians assert that the boundary line extended from Dublin to Clarin's Bridge, near Galway. All to the south of this line was called Leth-Mogha, or "Mogh's half," and the northern part was called Leth-Chuinn, or "Conn's half." And these names are still applied to north and south by the Irish-speaking population.*

   This prince seems to have married Sadhbh (pron. Soyv), or Sally, the daughter of Conn of the Hundred Battles, his father's opponent, and had by her seven sons. He is said to have had twelve sons by other women.

   His sons by his wife were, 1. Eoghan Caemh (or "Eugene the Mild"), otherwise called Eoghan Mór, from whom the "Eugenian"† families of

* The Irish historians assert that Oilill Olum, by his last will and testament, directed that the sovereignty of Munster should be alternately enjoyed by the descendants of his two eldest sons, Eoghan Mór and Cormac Cas, that is to say, by the Eugenian and Dal-Cassian families; but although the compact seems to have been observed for some time, the rule of "might is right" ultimately prevailed.

† The principal septs of the Eugenian race were the Mac Carthies, O'Callaghans, O'Sullivans, O'Donoghoes, O'Donovans, and O'Mahonys of Munster.

Munster are descended; 2. Cormac Cas, from whom the O'Briens and the principal families of Thomond derive their origin; 3. Cian, the ancestor of various tribes scattered throughout the north of Ireland, the name of one tribe of which (Cianachta) is still preserved in that of the Barony of Keenaght, County Londonderry; 4. Dichorb; 5. Dubh-mearchon; 6. Mogh Corb; and 7. Tadhg, or Teige.

The eldest of these was—

2. Eoghan, or "Eugene the Great," who is also called Eochaidh Taebh-fada, or Eochaius de longo latere, as O'Flaherty correctly interprets the name (Ogygia, p. 331). Eoghan and his brothers assisted their maternal uncle, Art, son of Conn of the Hundred Battles, in the celebrated battle of Magh Mucraimhe (pron. Moy Mucreevy), a plain near Athenry, in the County of Galway, which was fought, in the year A.D. 218 according to the Annals of Tighernach. The opponent of King Art was Lughaidh (pron. Loo-ey) Mac Con, who had been expelled from Ireland, but who is said to have returned with a band of foreign adventurers to avenge his injuries. Lugha Lagha, the brother of Oilill Olum, incensed by the marriage of the latter with the daughter of his father's enemy, took the side of Mac Con in the battle, and slew the Monarch Art. Of the legitimate sons of Oilill Olum who were engaged on this occasion, only one escaped, namely the second son, Cormac Cas, the ancestor of the Dal-Cais, or principal family of Thomond.* Eoghan Mór married Moncha, the daughter of Dil, a celebrated Druid, and had a son,

3. Fiacha Muillethan, or "Fiachus Latus Vertex," who succeeded to the sovereignty of Munster on the death of his uncle, Cormac Cas, about the year 260. He was the contemporary of Cormac Mac Art, Monarch of

* The Book of Leinster, a MS. of the twelfth century in the Library of Trinity College, Dublin, contains (fol. 105, bb.) a curious poem, ascribed to Oilill Olum, in which he laments the death of his sons. Although the language is, of course, by no means as old as Oilill's time, it is still exceedingly ancient.

Ireland, who endeavoured to exact heavy tributes from the Munstermen. His pretensions being opposed, Cormac invaded Munster with a large army; but on reaching the place then called Druim Damhgaire, now Knocklong, in the County of Limerick, he was encountered by the army of Munster, under the command of Fiacha, defeated in a pitched battle,* and obliged to make restitution for the injuries caused by his invasion. This Fiacha resided chiefly at Cnoc-Rafann, now Knockgraffon, near the River Suir, in the present County of Tipperary, where his large moat, with extensive entrenchments, is still visible.

In the Book of Munster (MS. R. I. A.) it is stated that Fiacha Muillethan had three sons, viz. :—Oilill Flann-mór, Oilill Flann-beg, and Conall Eachluath; but this seems a mistake, as Conall Eachluath was the fifth in descent from Cormac Cas, and the father of Cas, a quo "Dal-Cais." Oilill Flann-mór, the elder, having no issue, adopted his brother, Oilill Flann-beg, as his son, who became King of Munster, in turn, after the death of Mogh Corb, son of Cormac Cas.

4. Oilill Flann-beg was King of Munster during thirty years, and was slain in the battle of Corann, in the County of Sligo, by the men of Connaught, assisted by Fothadh Canonn, son of Mac Con, the ancestor of the O'Driscolls. He had four sons, namely, 1. Lughaidh, the progenitor of Eugenian branches—i.e. the MacCarthys, O'Sullivans, MacGillicuddys, O'Callaghans, and their correlatives; 2. Daire Cearba, the ancestor of the families of Lyons, O'Donovan, &c.; 3. Eochaidh, King of Munster, whose race is extinct; 4. Eoghan, from whom descended six remarkable saints, viz. :—I. St. Cormac, whose life is given in the Book of Lecan, and published in a Latin translation by Colgan, at 26th March; II. St. Becan of Cill-Becain (Kilpeacon, County Limerick); III. St. Culan of Glenkeen, in the County of Tipperary, whose bell, called Bearnan-Culain, or "gapped bell" of Culan, is still preserved; IV. St. Evin of Ros-glas, now

* The Book of Lismore, an Irish MS. of the fifteenth century, in the possession of His Grace the Duke of Devonshire, contains an exceedingly valuable historical tale, called Forbais Droma Damhghaire, or "Siege of Druim-Damhghaire," in which the battle in question is most minutely described.

5. Lughaidh, the first-named son of Oilill Flann-beg, was the third son in order of birth, and had a son called

6. Corc Mac Lughdach, or Corc, son of Lughaidh, King of Munster, whose first name was Conall, and who received the name of "Corc" from an injury to his ear by burning, regarding which a curious legend is told in the Book of Lecan, fol. 200, a. Corc is stated to have been one of the three kings who, in conjunction with three saints and three poets, assisted St. Patrick in compiling the Senchus Mór, which event is referred by the Irish Annals to the year A.D. 438. He is asserted to have been exiled by his father to Scotland, where he married Mongfionn (literally "Fair Locks"), daughter of Feradhach, King of the Picts, by whom he had four sons, viz.:—I. Corc, or Cairbre Cruithnechain (Carbrury the Pictish), from whom are descended the Eoghanacht, or Eugenians, of Magh Geirgin, in Scotland; II. Maine Leamhna, from whom the tribes of Leven in Scotland are derived; III. Cairbre Luachra, a quo Eoghanacht Locha Lein, i.e. the O'Donoghues of Loch Lein; and IV. Cronan, the ancestor of the Pictish tribe anciently settled in Meath. Besides these Corc is reported to have had eight other sons, including his eldest son, and successor, Nadfraech, the ancestor of the Eoghanacht Chaisil, "Eugenians of Cashel," i.e. the MacCarthys, O'Sullivans, &c.; and of the Eoghanacht Glennomnach, or family of O'Keeffe, and other Eugenian branches settled in the County of Limerick, around Knockany. Another of his sons, named Cas, was the ancestor of the Eugenians of Raithlinn and Ui-Echach, or the powerful family of O'Mahony, which anciently occupied a large tract of country in the west of the present County of Cork.

King Corc is represented as the first who established Cashel, called from him Cathair Chuirc or Corc's City, as the chief residence of the Kings of Munster, who previous to his time lived principally in the County of Limerick. The legendary accounts state that Corc's attention was first directed to Cashel by the reports of some swine herds who observed the frequent congregation of angels to the eminence on which the Rock of Cashel now stands; and this was subsequently regarded as having been a sign of the advent of St. Patrick to the place. Corc was succeeded by his son,

7. Nadfraech, King of Munster, who had four sons, viz.:—1. Aengus; 2. Oilill; 3. Eochaidh; and 4. Feidhlimidh (pron. Felimy). Of these the most remarkable was—

8. Aengus Mac Nadfraech, whose mother was a British princess. He is celebrated as having been the first Christian King of Munster. His faith and baptism he received at the hands of our great Apostle, St. Patrick. In connexion with the ceremony of the baptism of Aengus, an amusing incident is recorded in the lives of St. Patrick (see Dr. Todd's St. Patrick, p. 468), in which we are told that the saint, without perceiving it, allowed the lower end of his crozier, which was sharp and pointed, to pierce the king's foot; but Aengus, imagining that this was a necessary part of the ceremony, endured the torture without permitting himself to utter the slightest expression of pain; and it was not until the ceremony was over that the fact was discovered.

King Aengus, or Æneas, is stated to have had twenty-four sons and as many daughters, the one-half of whom he devoted to religion, at the request of St. Patrick. His wife was Eithne, called "Uathach, or the hateful," daughter of Crimhthann (pron. Criffan), son of Enna Cennselagh, King of Leinster, the ancestor of the Kavanaghs and the principal families of that province. Aengus and his wife were slain in the battle of Cill-Osnadha, now Kellistown, in the Barony of Forth, and County of Carlow, A.D. 489, by Illann, son of Dunlaing, and by Muirchertagh (or Murtagh) Mac Erca, afterwards Monarch of Ireland. In a stanza, quoted in the "Chronicum Scotorum" (A D. 487), commemorating the event, he is described as—

"A branch of the great spreading tree, Aengus the praiseworthy, son of Nadfraech."

His eldest son and successor was—

9. Feidhlimidh (pron. Felimy), of whom little is known. He left a son,

10. Crimhthann (pron. Criffan, and corruptly Griffin), who had a son,

11. Aedh Dubh, or "Hugh the Black," two of whose sons became kings, viz.:—Failbhe Flann, the direct ancestor of the MacCarthys, who was King of Munster from A.D. 627 to A.D. 636, and

12. Finghin (pron. Finneen, anglicè Florence), who was King of Desmond, or South Munster, from A.D. 604 to his death in 619. The ancient records at present existing contain hardly any notices of the career of this individual, who left a son,

13. Sechnasach (or Shaughnessy), whose son and successor, but not in the sovereignty of Desmond, was

14. Fiachra an ghaisgedh, or Fiachra "of the Valour," of whom nothing further is known than that he left a son,

15. Flann Roba, or Flann of the Robe, the father of

16. Dubhindracht (pron. Duff-inrat), whose eldest son was

17. Murchadh, or Murrough, the father of

18. Echtighern (pron. Aghteern), the father of

19. Maelughra (pron. Mælúra), whose eldest son was

20. Suilobhan, or Suldubhan, from whom the name of O'Sullivan is derived, and who flourished about the year A.D. 950. The Bardic historians have invented the following legend to account for the name of O'Sullivan:—

The name of Suldubhan, they say, was Eochaidh. On one occasion an Albanian (or Scotch) druid, called Labhan (pron. Lavan), who was an illustrious poet, came to make the visitation of Erinn, and on proceeding to the house of Eochaidh, was received by him with the most profuse hospitality, and presented with many precious gifts. But to put Eochaidh's generosity to the severest test, Labhan requested him to give him his eye. (Eochaidh had but one eye, the second having been destroyed in battle). To this sacrifice Eochaidh consented, moved thereto by his regard for hospitality, and by the fear of incurring the druid's satire in case of refusal. The ancient Irish entertained the most superstitious fear of poetic satire, the power of which they believed capable of actually making the earth sterile and the rivers unfruitful. The transaction having come to the ears of St. Ruadhan, or Rodhanus, of Lothra, in the County of Tipperary (or rather to his successor; for St. Ruadhan lived in the 6th century—i.e., four centuries before the time of Eochaidh—the saint prayed that the covetous Labhan's eyes might be transferred to the head of Eochaidh; and the request being granted, the lucky subject of this prodigy was afterwards called Suil-Labhain (i.e. "Labhan's eyes"), corruptly "Sullivan." But the alias reading "Suldubhan," probably represents the more correct form of the name, which would in this case mean "hook-eyed," an epithet perhaps indicative of some deformity in the person to whom it was applied.

Suldubhan had a son, who was called

21. Lorcan, a name now generally anglicised Lawrence, whose son,

22. Buadhach (lit. Victor, or Victorious), of Ath-cró, was the first person that ever bore the name of O'Sullivan. He was the father of

23. Aedh, or Hugh, O'Sullivan, the father of

24. Cathal, or Charles, O'Sullivan, who had a son,

25. Buadhach (or Victor) O'Sullivan, the father of

26. Mac-Raith (lit. "son of prosperity"), now written "Magrath," whose eldest son was

27. Domhnall Mór, or "Daniel the Great," O'Sullivan, of Carrig-Finvoy, in Carbury, county Cork, who was the common ancestor of the families of

O'Sullivan More, O'Sullivan Beare, Mac Gillacuddy, Mac Crohan, Mac Fineen Duff, and MacLawrence. His eldest son was

28. Gilla-Mochuda, or "Servus Mochudii," from whom is derived the name of Mac-Gilla-Mochada, or MacGillacuddy. Various absurd stories have been invented to account for the origin of the name, but the following seems the real origin. A distinguished member of the O'Sullivan family, Ailinn, or Allen O'Sullivan, who had been Bishop of Cloyne, was subsequently transferred to the See of Lismore, where he died in the year 1253. The founder of Lismore, St. Carthach, better known as St. Mochada, who died in 653, was a native of the district (Kerry) to which Bishop O'Sullivan belonged; and thus, both as his countyman and successor, the latter naturally regarded St. Mochada with peculiar respect. To the bishop, consequently, may be ascribed the introduction of the practice about this time adopted in the O'Sullivan family, of placing their children, at baptism, under the tutelage of St. Mochuda. Hence it is that the name of Gilla-Mochuda is of such frequent occurrence in the pedigrees of the O'Sullivans.

This Gilla-Mochuda, had a son called

29. Dunlaing, whose eldest son was Muirchertach (the direct ancestor of Eoghan Ruadh O'Sullivan, who died in Dublin, in the year 1687), and whose second son was

30. Gilla-Mochuda caech, or "the one-eyed," whose son

31. Conchobhar, or Conor, was the first person called Mac Gilla-Mochuda, or M'Gillicuddy, although his name is sometimes written "Conor Mac Gillicuddy O'Sullivan."* He was the father of another

* He appears to have been the MacGillicuddy mentioned in the Annals of the Four Masters, under the year 1563, as having slain Donnell O'Sullivan Beare. Regarding the use of the name of Mac Gillicuddy, it is stated in a MS. history of Kerry, in the Royal Irish Academy, written about the year 1750, that "most of said family, till Cromwell's time, called themselves O'Sullivans, but the head of the family was still called Mac Gillacoddy; but since that time most of 'em call themselves M'Gillacoddys, but such as go abroad, as the learned Rev. Doctor Florence O'Sullivan, who made some few foundations in the Irish College, Louvaine, when there President, and predecessor to the Rev. Dr. Kent."

32. Giolla-Mochuda MacGillicuddy, alias O'Sullivan, who seems to be the "Lord of the Reeks," described in Angus O'Daly's satire (written circa 1599), as hating mankind "as the daisy hates the night." (Tribes of Ireland, Dublin, O'Daly, 1852, p. 73. He was the father of

Dennis M°Gillycuddy died in 1730.

V. Dennis, eldest son of Dennis and Anne M°Gillycuddy, was born on 15 Nov., 1718, and died intestate and unmarried in 1735.

VI. Cornelius, second son of Dennis and Anne M°Gillycuddy, was born on the 15th January, 1720. Upon attaining his majority he proceeded to obtain an account from Mr. Herbert, his mother's second husband, of the assets of his father, and for that purpose took out administration to his elder brother Dennis. In 1743 Cornelius had thoughts of marrying a Roman Catholic, as appears from a letter which he received from Redmond Keatinge, a lawyer, whom he consulted. In this letter, dated from Dublin, January the 7th, 1743, Mr. Keatinge thus advised the M°Gillycuddy:—"I am of opin^{n}, y^{t} you can't w'th safety marry a Papist. Such marriage is attended with very many legal disabilities, such as to be deemed a Papist, unless the lady shall conform within y^{e} year and day after y^{e} marriage. But I do not think y^{t} such marriage, tho' she should not conform, could affect y^{r} present estate. There is a bill brought in this session to annull all future marriages between Protestants and Papists, but whether it will pass into a law, I know not as yet." The M°Gillycuddy seems to have adopted the advice of his counsellor. In the month of April, 1745 (as appears by his love letters still preserved), he was engaged to Catherine, dau. of Richard Chute, esq., of Tulligaron, co. Kerry, by Charity, dau. of Arthur Herbert, of Currens, and Mary Bastable.

Richard M°Gillycuddy, of Banecluone or Whitefield, succeeded in 1826 to the family estates, which were much diminished by the carelessness of his ancestors. He, however, devoted himself to the improvement of his property, and by judicious management largely increased its value. He also made several extensive purchases of land, and acquired in this way a good deal of the ancient possessions of his forefathers. His influence as a resident proprietor was largely felt in his immediate neighbourhood, and he was respected and beloved by his tenantry, who regarded "the M°Gillycuddy" as their chieftain and lawgiver. Many of the denominations of land which have been mentioned in the foregoing papers will be found in the list of the townlands possessed by the late M°Gillycuddy, in the county of Kerry. These townlands are the following, namely:—In the Killarney Division,—Ardlaghas East, Ardlaghas West, Ardra, Alohart, Coolcummisk, Carhoonahone, Estmacrotty, Bunbennie, Droumlusky, Meanus East, Meanus West, Coolgarrive, Aghalibeg, Knocknasartnet, Cleeny, Cahircrohane, Banecluone or Whitefield, Upper Whitefield, and Coolroe;—In the Cahirciveen Division—Ahane, Cockowe, Cappaghclarig, Cappaghmore, Cappantanavally, Cloon, Coolnagreena, Cloughfune, Curraghflugh, Blackstones, Droumdury, Droumstabula, Coumletragh, Gortrelig, Gortnagown More, Gortnagown Beg, Goulnacappy, East Aulough, West Aulough, Upper Shanary, Lower Shanary, and Shanacashill;—In the Dingle Division—Ballinagrown, Ballycullane, Cahircruthera, Cahirpierce, East Glantanes, West Glantanes, Killenagh, and Rathduff.

The M°Gillycuddy at the time of his death was possessed of considerable personal property. He was also seized of the advowsons of the rectory of Sutton, S. Nicholas, in Herefordshire, and of the Perpetual Curacy of Miltown, in the county of Kerry.

The M'Gillycuddy was appointed a Justice of the Peace for the county of Kerry, on the 30th of November, 1815, and served the office of High Sheriff in 1824. On the 20th of February, 1832, he was appointed by the Earl of Kenmare to be a Deputy Lieutenant for Kerry.

He died on the 6th of January, 1866, and was interred in the family vault at Knockane, on the 11th of January. His friends and tenantry afterwards placed a rich memorial window in Knockane Church, as a token of the respect and affection universally felt for him. A handsome Mediæval Tablet was also placed in Knockane Church, by his widow, Madame M'Gillycuddy.

IX. Richard-Patrick, eldest son of Richard M'Gillycuddy, by his second wife, is the present M'Gillycuddy. He was born on the 15th of July, 1850.
